f) Description of Project / Invention : (full detail of project) :

V-commerce is a form of software application that is often utilized within commercial websites. Voice recognition technology replaces the typical point-and-click online decision-making process by prompting the user to speak into a microphone. The users decisions, then, are based on specific voice-recognition responses. Voice commerce goes beyond the regular yes or no responses and is considered by many business experts to be a sophisticated application for automatic merchandising.
